non-measured pour spouts

collared

The Precision Pour® non-measured, collared-style pour spouts feature the same high quality materials and superior quality of build as the 3-Ball measured pour spouts. The main difference being that the non-measured spouts are free-flowing; they will not automatically stop pouring like the 3-Ball spouts.

The collared style spouts are a nice cosmetic upgrade from our standard style spouts.

Because of different sized bottle openings, all of the fins on a spout's stem may not fit into a bottle. That's OK. Precision Pour® spouts are designed this way in order to fit the greatest number of bottles possible.

A collar covers these exposed fins and also covers the glass threads that are visible once you remove the cap from a liquor bottle.

Unlike other manufacturer's spouts, Precision Pour® collars are locked on to the spout's stem. This means that the collar and the stem turn as one, making it easy to remove the spouts from empty bottles.
